History

In order to relieve overcrowding in local schools adjacent to major federal installations or defense projects President Eisenhower signed Title 45 Public Law 81-874 "ASSISTANCE FOR SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION" with $1,500,000 contributed to Montgomery County. It was decided to build a new high school along 30 Acres on Old Bladensburg Road (later known as University Blvd) in Silver Spring with planned opening in fall 1956. The 2 story brick, tile and glass rambler cost of $1,955,143 with a student population of 1425. At its dedication by Arthur S. Adams, president of the American Council on Education, he described the school as "Magnificent Building" to a crowd of 1000 visitors. Northwood area grew prior to construction. The new school became a combination junior senior high school named Northwood Junior Senior High School with new principal Edward (Ted) A. Bartlett. Principal Bartlett was Harvard educated, a World War II veteran, and the former basketball coach from Winchester High School in Winchester MA. At the start of school September 1956, there was no working bell system, no mirrors in the wash rooms, no lockers, no cafeteria. They used whistles to mark start-stop of class periods. In February 1, 1960 Harold R. Packard replaced Bartlett. Eugene R. Smoley became Principal in 1972. In 1977 Principal Bobby J. Mullis replaced Smoley, and retired at the 1985 closing.

Closing

The closing of Northwood High School was discussed and voted on 3 times by the Montgomery County School Board starting in 1981 and finally ordered closed in a contested decision that aimed to alleviate the concentration of minorities enrolling at Montgomery Blair High School. A non-profit group NORTHWOOD COMMUNITY SOLIDARITY INC was established to fight the closure. After the closing, school trophies were given to students, and alumni. The varsity uniforms were sold to students for $1. The Northwood Indian headdress was donated to Wheaton Library for display. From 1987 to 2004, Northwood was used to hold students from other high schools during renovations. The school was re-opened in 2004 due to increasing population. During its original run, the school's mascot was the Indians. A September 2001 vote by the Board of Education banned ethnic and race-based team mascots at county schools. Students in the first class and Alumni from 1958 first graduating class chose the Gladiators as the new mascot.

Reopening

Dr. Henry R. Johnson became the first principal of the reopened Northwood. Johnson stayed until it was announced in January 22, 2013 that he would be appointed the Assistant State Superintendent for Curriculum and Assessment for the State of Maryland. Prior to the reopening the funds saved by the Northwood Community Solidarity for 20 years $8,500 was donated to Northwood in memory of the late Bobby Mullis. 2008 was the first year since the school reopened in which there were all four classes. The school has approximately 1,400 students. This size has moved it from a division 2A school in Maryland High School athletics, to a division 3A

I Willie Sun, leave forever to thee, A.P. whatever you want of me. My name, my honor, my love. (Musky isn't it?) Take my hand and hold me A.F. for if I ever lost you, I would be lost indeed. For all the world's a stage and we are merely players... Tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow creeps into our petty pace from day to day to the last syllable of recorded time. And all our yesterdays... precious floating yesterdays... a stone, a leaf, an unfound door... gone. What does the future hold for us? Alision?
